THE GOLDEN GATE TO NEW YORK BY WAY OP CAPE HORN. On Sunday evening, October 4th, while we were all sitting about the library tea table, the dispatch I had been awaiting from Mr. Arthur James upon his arrival in San Francisco, came. It ran: I am willing you should go with the Coronet around Cape Horn, provided you can stand many discomforts and mess with the captain. Coronet sails about the twelfth, due in New York February. It brought a sort of gale off Terra del Fuego into our home circle; but we soon eased our mainsheets and I was off to the telegraph office to send my answer. It was: Accept with thanks chance to go with Coronet under conditions you state. Monday nigh t I left Syracuse, and Saturday morning we breakfasted in Sacramento, crossing the Karquinez Strait...
